GOLDEN WEDDING DAY OF MR. AND MRS. BIGGS WAS MOST HAPPY AFFAIR

Surrounded by friends of over half a century and being greeted by associates of more recent years, with the memorable experience on Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Biggs of Middle avenue, who observed the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. From three o'clock in the afternoon until late in the evening there was a continuous line of callers and cards and flowers in profusion were distributed by post and messenger.

Mr. and Mrs. Biggs were married in Elyria June 19, 1870, at the home of Mr. Biggs' sister, Mrs. A. R. Philpott, who was present at the celebration on Saturday

Miss Louise Biggs, a daughter, teacher in the Elyria schools, and Hardy Biggs, a civil engineer at the National Tube Co., were in attendance with their parents throughout the happy day and assisted in greeting the throng of friends.

Loving hands had transformed the Biggs home into a veritable flower garden, and in recognition of the "golden" anniversary, yellow and gold was the keynote in the color design of the decorations

In the dining room, where tea and cakes were served the callers, light from the golden shaded candelabra was aided by the use of tall cathedral candles with yellow shades.

Mrs. Hahn of Cleveland and Mrs Hardy Biggs presided over the tea tables.

Throughout this half century this estimable couple has lived in this city and have been permitted to watch its wonderful growth and prosperity and at all times assisting in every way for all that tended to its betterment

Mr. and Mrs. Biggs are members of the First Methodist church and dependable in church activities. The department of the Aid society to which Mrs. Biggs belongs tendered her a card shower in honor of the event.

RESUME OF WORK LOCAL Y. W. C. A. SHOWS MUCH HAS BEEN ACCOMPLISHED

The Y. W. C. A. has been a veritable bee-hive of activity during the past few weeks.

A most successful "County Fair" both financially and in the number of folk attending, was held in the "Gym" by the Industrial-Federation girls, the object of which was to raise money to swell their summer conference fund. Later this same "peppy" group of girls entertained their mothers and friends at a lively party in the Gym.

The Grade School Girl Reserves held their first Mother-Daughter Banquet and later in the month presented the fascinating play "Alice in Wonderland".

The demonstration of the work accomplished in the Physical Education Department was witnessed by an audience that filled all available space in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. This department has just closed one of the most successful year in its history, enrolling more members than at any previous time

Several new members have joined the ranks since the last bulletin was issued. In the Industrial-Federation, 12 and in the Girls' Work Department, 37, while many senior members have sent in their renewals.

The Summer Conferences are now one of the most discussed topices. The Industrial Secretary and eight members of the Federation will attend the Field Industrial Conference at Oxford, Ohio, during June, while the Girl's Work Secrtary and eight members of the flourishing Friendship Club will take part in the Girl's Work Conference at Granville, Ohio.

Announement will be made soon of the Summer program, outdoor club meetings, hikes, tennis, base ball, picnics, a pageant and at least a two-weeks summer camp.

SUFFERING OF YOUNG WOMEN

This Letter Tells How it May be Overcome—all Mothers Interested.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—"From the time my daughter was 13 years old until she was 16 she suffered so badly each month that sometimes I had to call in the doctor. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound told her about it and she has used 16 bottles, and we always have it in the house. She feels fine now and she has no trouble at all each month. We always praise it and advise any friends who suffer to use your wonderful medicine."—Mrs. MINNIE MANDELKO, 1005 S. 18th St., & 10th Ave., Fort Dodge, Iowa.

A DANCE IN GREENWICH VILLAGE.

June 20—4 a. m.—Very early, very tired, and much bewildered, expresses me perfectly this morning.

Just came in from a real Greenwich village dance. Think of it! My very first, too. I'll say it was some dance. Such costumes, such wild women and such cameraderie one finds at no other dances, believe me.

I met everyone of any local fame in the "village," from Bobby Edwards, the uncrowned ukelele king, to Dick, the oyster man, whose exact social status in the village has never quite been determined. Of course Sonia, the cigaret fiend, and Adele, the village guide, were there—oh, very much there, and somewhat scantily clad. But, oh, so merry withal.

Between you and me, little book, I was a bit surprised at Jack taking me to the dance at all. He is all against the "nuts of the village," as he calls them, most of the time, and then out of a clear sky he walks us both right into the heart of those same people.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Sloan were there, of course, and Nessa looked perfectly stunning in a costume consisting of some pale green tulle—and—well, that's about all. But it was draped about her, somehow, and passed the village censor. Jack chortled as he caught sight of her, and called out, "Some costume, Nessa." I suddenly felt very much dressed and swathed in my Chinese attire, even though it was becoming.

The dance did not properly begin until nearly eleven, and when it started it certainly hummed!

I actually danced twice with that funny and famous Bobby Edwards, and he was so deep-voiced and sort of mysterious, you've no idea.

Then, one by one, I met all sorts and conditions of celebrities, some local and others of international fame, like Eggplant Ahrens, who runs the village book store on Eighth street. But he was not so thrilling—his wife stuck to him most of the time.

Fern Forrester, the village's best beloved artist, was there too, and gorgeous to behold in a Hindu costume. Jack danced with her several times, and I did not blame him for it at all. She's all dimples, even when her husband, Frank Shay (also famous), and a connoisseur of books and one-act plays, as you know, was around. They were happily married, though, and one of the few couples in the Bohemian section of New York who are, so maybe that accounts for it.

There were ever so many bobbed-haired women there, and I had more fun watching them. They seemed to pose a good deal, and were obviously "brainy," which I am not, especially, nor do I understand same.

Several of them, Jack told me, had written books on different modern movements and "isms"—I think Jack called them. I was not keen on meeting any of them personally, because I know that I am limited where these matters are concerned. And I don't believe in deliberately exposing one's ignorance, not even at a dance.

I expect to be able to meet many weird people, on their own ground, when I return from Europe, for although I may not learn anything definite about the subjects I am in darkness about now, I feel sure that I shall acquire enough "nerve" to sit about and pose as a deep thinker—even as the rest of them do.

To sleep now; I'm dead tired.

IMPRESSIVE MEMORIAL SERVICES CONDUCTED BY LOCAL ODD FELLOWS

Over-Confidence of Sheriff Results in Stealing of Official's Auto

Despite the rain of yesterday there was a large crowd in attendance at the annual Memorial service conducted by Elyria Lodge No. 103 I. O. O. F. of this city when the Canton of Lorain, also Daughters of Rebekah both here and Lorain were the guests.

The program was opened by John Strohl, the invocation pronounced by Ralph Reinhart and the eulogy of deceased members presented by C. M. Williams.

The eulogy of deceased Rebekahs was given by Mrs. Cora Knapp, and three splendid addresses were given the first by Mayor A. R. Jones and the Second, A. H. Piece of Wellington, a past Noble Grand, and the third by Frank Garrett, of Dayton, grand scribe.

Between showers, the Odd Fellows started for the cemetery with flowers, with Canton Lorain, acting as escort, but had just started when the down pour was resumed, but nevertheless continued their march, and placed fragrant bouquets upon each of the graves of deceased members, which numbered, since August 2, 1856, almost two hundred. Those of the order who have passed away within the past year are Carl G. Friday, Burt Lehman, Marion Thompson, Walter Crofoot, Harman Albright and the Rebekahs, Mrs. Alice Opfer, Mrs. Matilda Berg and Mrs. Gustava Baxter.

The graves were marked in the forenoon with flags which assisted also in marking them for the flowers in the afternoon.

Much credit for the success of this beautiful memorial service was due the efficient committee on arrangements, Mason D. Smith, Bruce Amidon and Clarence Vincent.

SAYS CHINESE IDOL WORSHIP IS INCREASING

Missionary Who Is Back Home on Furlough Declares Popular Supposition Untrue — Has Been Thirty-Nine Years in the Field

That idol worship is not dying out in China, as has been generally reported, but that on the contrary there has been in recent years a marked revival of it in certain quarters, was the opinion expressed by Dr. Carl Cooper Sunday evening in a lecture at the local Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Cooper, a Methodist missionary home on furlough, accompanied his lecture with stereopticon slides showing the parts of Central China where he has been engaged in active religious and educational work for the past 39 years. Dr. Cooper was sent out from Baldwin-Wallace College at Berea. He has established many stations and schools and one college in the Orient.

In his lecture Dr. Cooper dwelt chiefly upon the idol worship of the Chinese. He claimed the distinction of having visited more sacred places than any other man in the field. Although idol worship was not by any means declining, according to the speaker, Confucianism has in recent years been officially declared no longer a religion but merely a system of state ethics.

"Somehow 'selectin' a wife seems t' be so cold blooded. After all, I believe th' feller that gits hooked without knowin it makes th' most reconciled husband," declares Miss Fawn Lippincut. Th' feller that don't advertise may know his business, but nobuddy else does.

Rivers End

There is a wealth of wonderful scenery of the snow wastes of the frozen northland in the picture, "The Rivers End," by James Oliver Curwood, a Marshall Neilan production, that is showing at the Colonial Theatre

The snow scenes were taken up in Canada, where the snows lay many feet deep on the ground almost the year round There are miles and miles of snow fields, stretching to the horizon and beyond to the land of the midnight sun.

Here there is only a chance white man's hut, some one seeking a refuge from the world of men, an outcast from his own people Occasionally there will be the rude tepees of the northern Indians and perhaps the igloos of Esquimaux But mostly it is a dreary waste, where the wolf pack hunts or howls at the moon.

In a long, long time there is seen a trail, and a white man on snow shoes traveling across the snow, or perhaps a sled drawn by huskies, white men on some unusual mission.

In this setting is laid a story of tremendous action and of deep heart interest, the story of a man driven into exile because charged with murder, of a thrilling chase which lasts for months—the relentless Royal Mounted Police on the trail, determined that justice shall be satisfied by a hanging

Then back to civilation runs the story, following the outlaw in a dead man's garments with a dead man's name These mysteries and thrills are unfolded in a way that will both startle and fascinate all

ANITA STEWART IN "THE YELLOW TYPHOON"

RUSSIA SEEKS A CLOSER U. S. RELATIONSHIP

Sebastopol, June 21—Closer relations between Russia and the United States are desired by General Boran Wrangel, commander of the South Russian volunteer army, he declared today He said the United States had "shown itself a champion of real democracy by intervening in the great war" and said he hoped worthy Russia students might attend American universities

American mechanical experts, the general said, could assist in the rehabilitation of Russia's railways and the development of her natural resources after the war, and he said he wanted American capital to seek commercial arrangements in southern Russia, as American activities would be of a purely commercial, and not of a political nature

General Wrangle believes new Russia will not be a highly centralized state, and that much latitude will be given the many races of the country to govern themselves

The general's plan for a division of land incudes establishment in Crimea of a land commission to divide territory on the principle that a man may own only as much land as he can intelligently and profitably cultivate himself As a remedy for peasants' lack of training he aid he would establish agriculture schools on large states belonging to the government.

HUGHES SPEAKS AT HARVARD CENTENNIAL

Autocratic Appetite Fed in War Under Guise of Liberty and Democracy, Says Speaker

Cambridge Mass., June 21—The centennial of the Harvard law school and the 50th anniversary of the beginning of the late dean, Christopher Columbus Langdelle s service, were celebrated today by approximately 350 graduates The school was founded in 1817, but war conditions caused postponement of the celebration.

The program included as speakers, Charles E Hughes, president A Lawrence Lowell of the university, and Henry L Stimson, former secretary of war

Charles E Hughes, speaking at the centenary of Harvard Law school here today declared that "in the art of governing ourselves we not only fall short of what we should expect in a free people of so great intelligence but we frequently present a sorry spectacle

His subject "some observations on legal education and democratic progress"

"Legislation Not Progress"

"A passion for legislation is not a sign of democratic progress," he said "and in the mass of measures introduced in the legislatures of our free commonwealth, there is too little evidence of perpective and an abundance of elaborate and dreary futilities Occasionally a constructive measure of great benefit is skilfully planned, but we are constantly impressed with the lost motion and the vaste waste in the endeavor of democracy to function wisely

"The regretable thing" Mr Hughes continued, "is that the tendency to enact uncertain laws seems to be increasing and what is still worse, the people tolerate it and there are but faint demands for improvement Our material progress seems to have created complexities beyond our political competency and, disregarding the lessons of history, there has been a disposition to revert to the methods of tyranny in order to meet the problems of democracy Intent on some immediate exigency, and with slight consideration of larger issues we create autocratic power by giving administrative officials who can threaten indictment the opportunities of criminal statutes, without any appropriate definition of crime

"We went to war for liberty and democracy with the result that we fed the autocratic appetite, through a fiction, permissable only because the courts cannot know what every one else knows, we have seen the war powers, which are essential to the preservation of the nation in time of war, exercised broadly after the military exigency has passed and in conditions for which they were never intended, and we may well wonder in view of the precedents now established whether constitutional government as heretofore maintained in this republic could survive another great war even victoriously waged

"Ignore Liberty Essentials"

"Apart from these conditions, we cannot afford to ignore the indications that perhaps to an extent unparalleled in our history, the essentials of liberty are being disregarded Very recently information has been laid by responsible citizens at the bar of public opinion of violations of personal rights which savor of the worst practices of tyranny And in the conduct of trials before the courts we find a growing tendency on the part of the prosecutors to resort to grossly unfair practices"

Mr Hughes declared that "if a decisive decision is fettered by minute requirements imposed by the legislature, if necessary departments are controlled by the constant review of all controversies as to facts by ordinary courts of justice primarily adapted to other needs, the opportunity for impeding litigation will leave vast activities to the mercy of the cunning, selfish and avaricious and the means designed for protection will defeat their own purpose On the other hand, present methods are obviously crude and tend to an intolerable personal government."

"Supposing I give you your supper," said the tired-looking woman, "what will you do to earn it?"

"Madam," said the wanderer, "I'd give you de opportunity uv seeing a man go t'roo a whole meal without finding fault wid a single t'ing."

The woman thought a minute, and then told him to come in and she'd set the table.

"Do you know what I am going to get? It's something very good made from wheat
It's Sally Annie Bread which we eat with meat,
For it makes the children rosy and sweet.
Stephanie Meyal, age 13 years.

A Colonial House With Garage Attached

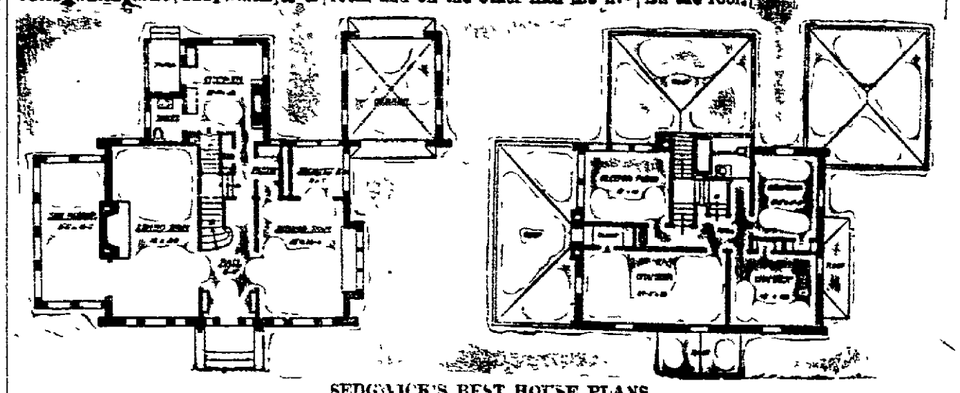

DESIGNED BY CHARLES A. SEDGWICK

SO many persons own automobiles these days that the home builder must of necessity consider this fact. The home pictured today is a handsome model of the Colonial type in which the treatment for garage has been contrived. There are almost as many different ways of treating the garage as there are breakfast foods and, comparatively few such designs are either practical or attractive. In the design shown today, both these have been effected and the owner would find the convenience of having his garage so arranged a joy and comfort. Some may offer the objection that one has to go out doors under cover to get into the garage. However, this plan is much preferred by many owing to the pungent gasoline odors which arise and which it is very difficult to keep out of the house when the entrance into the garage is direct therefrom. On the other hand, if it is preferred to have the garage under the same roof, this can, with but comparatively little extra expense, be done by making a den out of the breakfast room and building the breakfast room back of that then adjoining the newly built breakfast room by a tiny passage way to the garage.

This model, which is estimated as costing between $13,000 and $15,000 exclusive of heating and plumbing, inclines to old fashioned spaciousness in regards to floor plan. The big wide center hall from which the broad stairway winds upward, opens on one side into the dining room and on the other into the living room, featured by a large rough stone fireplace. From the living room one enters the sun parlor which would make an ideal conservatory in winter. The kitchen is in a way all to itself, it being connected with the dining room by way of the pantry. Thus are all cooking odors kept from the main part of the house. The second floor is most conveniently arranged, the three sleeping apartments and sleeping porch opening into a center hall which leads direct to the bath room.

The total frontage made part, is 37 feet by 34 feet, not including sun parlors or rear extensions. This house is constructed of hollow tile faced with texture brick, and with concrete foundation. It has a Spanish tile roof.

GIRL SHOWS HOW WOMAN MAY HAVE SLAIN ELWELL

Miss Marion Rice demonstrating how woman could have used .45-calibre army automatic on Elwell, at scene of Elwell murder.

To disprove the statement that a woman could not handle the .45-calibre army automatic with which Joseph B. Elwell, turfman and whist expert, was shot at his New York home, Miss Marion Rice, eighteen, of Brooklyn, recently demonstrated to the contrary. Out of three shots she scored three bullseyes. The scene of the murder is shown above. The chair is the one in which Elwell sat when he was killed. The bullet, after mortally wounding Elwell, struck the plaster and rebounded, falling on the table. The photo shows how the bullet tore the plaster.

GREATER LOVE HATH NO MAN THAN THESE TWO PLAYERS
THEY LEAD LEAGUE IN LAYING DOWN THEIR BASEHIT LIVES

Joe Gedeon of the Browns and Ray Chapman of the ambitious Indians are leading the American league right now in sacrificing. Those two birds are running an even race in the number of times they have passed up a chance to hit 'er out to dump one in front of the plate. Recent averages showed them tied with twenty-two suicides each and their nearest competitor was Donie Bush with seventeen. Because of the fact that both boys are speed merchants they have dumped many more than twenty-two in between the pitcher and catcher, as they have beaten out many before the ball could be fielded and snapped to first.

Ray Chapman, hitting the dirt, and Joe Gedeon.

CASCADE PARK A BEAUTY SPOT, SAYS PAPER

A Cleveland paper had the following to say Sunday regarding advantages of Cascade park, as a fine place for automobile parties

One of the pleasantest short trips out of Cleveland and one which offers the additional incentive of a fine pavement over a different route for the return trip is westward to Elyria and back by way of Lorain and the Lake road This circuit is 63.7 miles long.

Cascade park in Elyria, beautiful in its wealth of natural scenery, its craggy heights, its masonry laid when the world was young, its water falls, its trees and springs, makes an ideal objective for this drive. Here the picnic luncheon may be eaten in a setting of rustic splendor.

The drive through the park can readily be negociated by motor car if the dirt road is dry Otherwise it is perhaps wisest to leave the car on the street and explore the sylvan wonderland afoot

ARREST AGED MAN IN OLD MURDER CASE

Miami, Okla., June 21—Charged with the stabbing and killing of Bill Cross at Albany, Ky., 18 years ago, Bill Dowdy, 60, was arrested at Commerce, a mining camp north of here yesterday and turned over to Kentucky officers

The killing was the outcome of a feud, it is said.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM MEDINA

Medina, June 21—George Talmadge, Jr., alias Gilbert Moore, 17 Chicago, and Hobard B. Fulford alias Jack Dalton, 19, Roanoke, Va., presumably have made good their escape in Sheriff Park G Bigelow's auto.

The boys admitted having deserted the navy, said they stole a horse and buggy at Pittsburgh and drove as far as Wadsworth when the horse became lame, was abandoned and a horse and buggy belonging to S. L Olin, Wadsworth, stolen. The Olin horse was identified in Sharon township and the lads arrested.

The boys told they had made a clean breast of everything and wanted to help Sheriff Bigelow plant potatoes. After the day's work Bigelow told the boys to take the team of horses to his home, get the county auto and come back to the farm and get him.

There were eight gallons of gasoline in the auto. The boys were trailed to within a short distance of Cleveland when the trail was lost and the boys apparently made good their escape.

PILE SUFFERERS

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting and operations fail?

Do you know the cause of piles is internal?

That there is a stagnation of blood in the lower bowels?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal tablet remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by C. W. Phillips and druggists generally, that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the internal cause, by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, safe and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

Conductor Lends Margaret Wilson Dime for Carfare

New York, June 21—Miss Margaret Wilson, daughter of the president, discovered she was 'broke' while riding on Fifth avenue bus recently and borrowed ten cents from a conductor to pay her fare according to the current issue of Bus Lines, the bus company's periodical.

She mounted the bus at 34th st and Fifth ave and proffered a coin to P. G Lynch, the conductor He looked at it and remarked:

"I'm sorry Miss, but this is a penny, not a dime,"

The young woman searched her purse and then, embarrassed, said:

"I'm afraid I must get off the penny is all I have."

"Remain where you are," replied the conductor, whi was unaware of her identity "I will be glad to lend you ten cents."

She accepted his offer and took his name. A few days later he was surprised to receive a note written on White House stationary and signed "Margaret Woodrow Wilson," thanking him for his courtsey and enclosing a dime.

The Elyria Y. W. C. A. Friendship club will be represented at the Girls' conference at Granville, Ohio, June 21-July 2, by Ethel Wilcox, Charlotte Webster, Elizabeth Wilford, Ruth Risk Ruth Schneider, Doris Todd, Elizabeth Hauk, Eva Anderson, the president of the club, and Miss Helen Cord, the local girls' work secretary.

The program for the conference contains morning devotions, Bible study hour, an hour of organized sports and an hour of technical council for club members.

Afternoons will be given up to rest and recreation. The evening "campfire time" will be very informal, with much time for singing and special talks on several evenings.

The theme of the inspirational part of the program is "There are as many ways to God as there are human hearts," and the Bible courses all will be entitled 'Wayfarers."

Just to be out, one big family of girls under the open sky, walking hand in hand with nature, makes one appreciate friends, life and one's own self more, as well as realize the beauty of life and one's own duty to those around more and more, has been the experience of many girls who have, in previous years attended such conferences native of Abyssinia. The three negroes led the parade yesterday mounted on horses and wearing fantastic raiment.

ABYSSIANIANS USE RIFLES IN FIGHT

Redding and seven other negroes said to have been leaders in yesterday's parade were arrested today Redding was caught at a railroad station just after he had purchased a ticket for St. Louis. Jonas, the police declared, was back of the movement for the return of the negroes to Abyssinia, yesterday was the principal speaker at a meeting which had for its object the launching of a boom for Mayor William Hale Thompson as a "third party" candidate for president who would rally the "solid Irish and negro vote."

White Men Killed

The killing of the white men, who included Robert L. Rose, a sailor stationed at Great Lakes, aroused hundreds of sailors on leave in Chicago and caused issuance of an order for the arrest and immediate despatch to Great Lakes of all sailors found on the streets An order barring all sailors from Chicago as a result of the trouble was being considered by Rear Admiral Bassett, commandant at the training station today, but thus far no action along this line has been taken.

The other white man killed was Joseph Hoyt, 59 years old, a clerk in a cigar store near the scene of the shooting He was shot with what is believed to have been a dumdum bullet. His head was split as though with an axe The negroes who were wounded include Joseph P Owens, a policeman

Crowd Dispersed

For several hours after the rioting started, crowds formed in and around the outskirts of the "black belt", but 700 police rushed to the district, succeeded with little trouble in dispersing them

Besides the beating administered to the three negro preachers by a crowd of white men, a negro buying a ticket at the Polk street station downtown, was seized by a crowd of 25 men and severely beaten. Four negroes in a taxi near the same station also were set upon by a crowd but escaped.

According to witnesses the burning of the flag and subsequent shooting the parade led by the Fernons and Redding dispersed in front of a cafe at thirty fifth st. and Indiana avenue. The parade was to have been followed by a meeting in a hall over the cafe.

Flag Oil-Soaked

One of the leaders of the procession believed to have been the elder Fernon, took a flag from a and set fire to it.

Spectators asserted that the flag was saturated with oil and that it burned readily Policeman Owens notified of the act, rushed to the scene and toward one of the men, his club raised as though to strike witneses said. One of the men on horseback, it was declared fired at him with a short rifle, wounding him with the first shot

Rose the sailor, who had been touring the south side with two companions, sprang from an automobile when he saw the parade and was almost at the policeman's side when the latter was shot, according to spectators. He turned and ran into a nearby cigar store. Several men with rifles, some of which it is declared, were nearby, ran to the door of the cigar store and fired a volley, according to persons near the scene. Rose and Hovt, the cigar clerk dropped dead ,(,(,(,(,(,(,(,((

During the shooting a second flag was thrown upon the flames, but was rescued before is was burned.

The propaganda circulated among Chicago negroes by the "prince' Jonas said, was signed by 'George Gabriel, Abyssinian linguist," and Redding. It gave the offices of the organization in Washington, D. C, and New York City. Redding, Jonas said, worked through the Universal Negro Improvement association and the Black Star Line Steamship company, a negro organization which owns one steamer.

Police raided a garage near the scene of the riot and captured one of the fantistic robes worn by the "princess," five short-barrelled rifles, a picture of Jonas and the Abyssinian delegation taken when they landed in New York and some of Redding's propaganda.

Boom Mayor Thompson

The Abyssinians explained at yesterday's meeting to boom Mayor Thompson as a third party presidential candidate, that the Abyssinian treaty was negotiated under the administration of President Roosevelt and would, if restored, vitiate "Jim Crow" laws in the south as the negroes claiming protection as Abyssinians, could demand the right to travel on the same terms as whites.

Jonas told the negroes at the Thompson meting that the friends of Irish freedom had aided in establishing the Black Star negro steamship line which would ultimately "carry arms to Africa."

He also declared he had seen a letter from Eamonn De Valera in which the "Irish President" said he had given up hope of obtaining an Irish freedom plank in the Democratic platform at San Francisco and would back a third party movement.

Reports that the Abyssinians were backed by the I W. W. were denied at I. W. W. headquarters.

Jonas A. Preacher.

New York, June 21—R. D. Jonas sought by the Chicago police in connection with riots there yesterday in which two persons were killed following the burning of an American flag, is known here as "Rev. Dr. R D. Jonas, secretary of the league of darker people" He appeared in the interests of the Black Star Line, owners of the steamer Yarmouth, whose $5,000,000 cargo of liquor was seized by federal agents here after the vessel had returned to port following departure for Cuba a few hours before the prohibition law went into effect

Jonas, who claimed to have come from Norfolk, Va., charged that the negro owners of the Yarmouth had been the victims of a plot to steal the liquor, which had culminated in its seizure. The vessel was finally permitted to leave for Havanna on February 12, last.

Leo. L. Healy, counsel for the Black Star company, said today that Jonas had no connection with the concern. He declared that the company was financed by negroes and that alleged statements by Jones to the effect that friends of Irish freedom had aided the line were "absolutely untrue."

"The statement that our steamers would ultimately carry arms to Africa is ridiculous," he added.

DINNER STORIES

"I understand you get off some very good things occasionally," said the sweet young thing at the swell reception.
"Well, they say I do," replied the man with the monocle.

"But it takes you considerable time to do it."
"You mean I am verbose?"
"Not exactly that; but you've been standing on the train of my dress for ten minutes."

Johnson had realized the dream of his life and taken his only son into partnership in the business he had worked up himself. There was great pride in the old man's heart the first day they were installed in the office together.
As the days went on, however, all did not work as Johnson had expected, and the youngster's overbearing manner annoyed him considerably.
"Look here, young man," said he one morning, "let's have a little less of the 'I' and a little more of the 'we' in this business. Remember, I'm still here, and you're only junior partner."
The youngster was quiet for a week, and the father thought his few words had struck home. A few days later, however, his son appeared, looking just a trifle anxious. "I say, dad, we've been and done it now!" he remarked.
"Done what?" asked the alarmed parent.
"Well—er—we've been and married the typist."

"When I moved in my landlord told me he was going to do a lot of things about this place."
Doesn't he keep his promise?"
"Only one of them. When he says he is going to raise the rent he never fails."

GOLF AT BANFF ON "THE ROOF OF THE WORLD"

6th TEE-BANFF GOLF COURSE

The golfer who is looking for something different can find excellent golf and most wonderful scenic surroundings on the Banff Golf Course, owned and managed by the Canadian Government at Banff, in the heart of the Canadian Rockies.
The picture of the fifth tee gives a good idea of the real reason why so many excellent golfers take their eye off the ball when they are trying to make par on this course.
No, the square place on the top of the great mountain at the left is not the tee for the second hole; the climb of 4,500 feet would be too great, but there is plenty of variety and interest in this wonderful course a mile high, nevertheless. The links has a total length of 8,000 yards for nine holes, and is an excellent test of the royal and ancient game.
Banff has so many other attractions—mountain climbing, pony rides over the trails, swimming in the hot sulphur pools from Sulphur Mountain, the great Indian pow-wow, the Buffalo park, etc., etc.—that the golfer who gets stale can find plenty of entertainment while he is resting up and getting back on his drive.

OBERLIN NEWS

FUNDAMENTALS OF RELIGIOUS FAITH GIVEN

Rev. J. W. Weddell to Render Treatise at Northern Baptist Convention Being Held This Week at Buffalo

Oberlin, June 21—As one of the signers of the call for a re-statement of evangelical truth at the Buffalo convention, June 21. Rev. J. W. Weddell read the folowing at Oberlin First Baptist church on Sunday morning, June 20.
"A re-statement of the fundamentals of the faith, irenic but comprehensive, ought to be given today.

List of Funamentals

1. "Because the recent war has unsettled the minds of many regarding the great varieties of the Word and has left them adrift in action and in much confusion of thought.
2. "Because the liberal tendencies of today in many of our schools of higher learning have introduced a subtle doubt into the minds of the young regarding even the plainest teachings of the Bible, which should, for the sake of all, be met and mended.
3. "Because in the downward an sideward drift of the times every generation needs a new statement of the faith, in the full, forceful vocabulary or its own day to give its poise and power and adequate gospel testimony.

Because as Baptists, protestants of the Protesants, and following wholly the Book, we feel that in his providence God has given us largely to sound the evangelical note for all the people who love the truth and we ought to sound it out today, clear and strong, so that all may hear and understand, and adjust themselves accordingly
5. "Because whilst Baptists are distinctly Biblical, they are in spirit and action no less distinctly broad in individual interpretation; and they believe that such a simple statement of the essentials will prevent division and lead to unity, giving us a basis of faith to rally on, along with the utmost liberty for the personal application of the principles of that faith, as revealed in God's Word.

Seven Declarations

Drawing our doctrine wholly from the Word, therefore, and giving freedom of conscience and conviction to all who accept the authority of the Book, we would lay down
1. "That all Scripture, and that alone, is inspired of God, and is wholly inspired.
"That is, that there is a Book that stands apart from all others as given of God by the Holy Spirit; and that this Book, which we call the Bible, is God-breathed in every part, and is to be taken reverently as the Voice of God, regarding things past, things present and things to come
2. "There are three persons in the Godhead: Father, Son and Holy Ghost; one in being but distinct in office, yet equally divine and worthy of adoration

In this high and holy Trinity, God is creator and ultimate ruler, Christ is mediator and redeemer, and friend, and the Holy Spirit, comforter and guide and divine impowerer.
3. "Man is a lost soul, having sinned of his own will and nature and forfeited his birthright in the family of God. But God loves him still, and Christ goes out after him and the Holy Spirit broods over and draws him; and the scene and sphere of this triple quest is the present world of life and probation.
4. "Satan, in a mysterious but potent way, is in this world to resist these divine leadings, and, using men's earthy, fallen propensities, to cloud their minds and draw them away from God and a return to their lost estate.
Responding to these Satanic influences—which, alas, in his fallen condition and without superior aid is the common lot and lot of mankind—man sinks himself to actual death and separation from the Father and to the abode of Satan and his angels.
5. "But God in his mercy has provided a way of salvation for lost man, in that Jesus, His Son, comes and enters in flesh, that he may in that flesh meet the requirements of the broken law, and paying the debt by his death on the tree, provide a ransom for sin, in order to bring us back to God.
6. "And to secure that return, since man in himself is carnally impotent through sin, the Holy Spirit graciously and sweetly comes, in order that when meek souls turn, undone, to God—it matters not when or how—he may breathe in of the divine mind and work the grace of regeneration and of the new life.
7. "By this new birth, miraculously divine, comes the new creation that includes in itself justification, sanctification, and the hope of glory, which prompts us historically and instinctively to gather ourselves as churches and believers into the family of Christ, and going out working and witnessing after others in all the world, to do good in His name and persistently to show forth His graces, till he come in his own marvelous way to complete, in the age of ages yet to come, the unutterable glories of his full Redemption."

CALL MEETING FOR JUNE TWENTY-NINTH

began at 1 a. m. Sunday on the three biggest lines operating in the city, spead to a forth line, later in the day, virtually leaving the city without car service.
One cross-town line, which has an agreement with its men, and one unimportant line operating only a few cars were in operation while main lines of traffic were at a standstill.
The first effort to halt the tie up ended in a failure yesterday when city commissioners had a meeting at city hall, but were unable to decide upon any line of action other than that special taxicab and jitney bus licenses would be issued during the emergency in an effort to provide transportation.
Columbus, June 21—New developments were lacking today in the strike of employees at the pumping station of the Ohio Fuel Supply Company at Sugar Grove.
That the company still is able to operate the plant is said to be indicated by the fact that the gas pressure in various cities served by the company was unimpaired today.
Lancaster, June 21—Settlement of the strike of sixty-five workmen employed at the Ohio Fuel Supply Company pumping station at Sugar Grove, near here, apparently was far away as ever early today. The men walked out Saturday, following refusal of the company to reinstate six union men who were discharged.
Union officials said pumps are not operating and that the supply of gas to Columbus, Cincinnati, Findlay, Fostoria, Zanesville, Toledo and other Ohio cities will be cut off.
Officials of the company denied a shutdown of operation would result, saying 15 per cent of the union men, who are said to have remained on duty, and nonunion workers would keep on the work. Officials of the company are said to have declared the discharged union men would not be reinstated.
Columbus, June 21—John M. Garard, vice president and general manager of the Ohio Fuel Supply Company, last night declared a full supply of gas would be available for patrons of the company during the night.
When asked concerning the outlook for today, Mr. Garard said: "I am not prepared to say what the conditions will be then."

THE CHILDREN'S HOSPITAL

It is probably not generally realized how beneficial a work for the community the Children's Hospital is doing. It is a work of which all should know.

The Children's Hospital is an institution in which children who would otherwise have little chance in the world of business are treated in such ways as to make them, if possible, able to grow into men and women of strength and action. No child is taken into the hospital unless the physicians in charge believe it can be improved in health or cured completely. The institution is a home in which crippled children are made straighter and are given a chance to fit themselves for the duties of their future citizenship.

But not only are the bodies of these little ones taken care of and benefitted; their minds also are given training as soon as they are able to get about. The children who come to the hospital are not infrequently boys and girls who have been left so much alone that their minds are sluggish and wholly without education. As soon as they are able to attend, they are placed in classes at the hospital and are personally taught many of those things which the public schools teach their more fortunate friends. And all the time they are given exercises which build up their little bodies.

All this is done at the Children's Hospital and for the good work of this institution all Elyria should be grateful. And the work is spreading to other parts of the state. Rotary clubs throughout Ohio are taking up the work, and it is aimed to have eight such hospital in as many different parts of the state, in order that the hospitals may be conveniently located for the children and their parents.

According to those who know the situation, it costs on the average one thousand dollars to put a single crippled child on its feet again, and the Elyria Children's Hospital has treated over 860 such children during its five-year existence. Such a good work is of infinite value to the community as well as to the boys and girls it helps toward a fuller and brighter life. The state should aid in the carrying on of the work, and the entire community should know of its scope.

MR. McADOO'S WITHDRAWAL

The withdrawal of William G. McAdoo from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination, if it should turn out to be final, is of great significance. The former secretary of the treasury, although disliked in many quarters because of his work as director general of the railroads, has been probably the party's most popular candidate.

Mr. McAdoo is of course a Wilson democrat. He is in sympathy for the most part with the President's stand upon the treaty and the League of Nations. Moreover, he is the President's son-in-law. It has been due chiefly to his close relationship with Mr. Wilson that the former secretary has met with the greatest part of his opposition. Personal relationships perhaps should count for less than they do in national politics, and yet there are great numbers of progressive citizens in the country who would hesitate a long time before turning over the Presidency to anyone who is likely to be influenced in his actions to any great degree by President Wilson.

The withdrawal of Mr. McAdoo lessens the complications in the Democratic situation in some ways. It means that the strongest Wilson man is out of the way. Incidentally, it means that the stock of Ohio's governor is given a considerable boost. The outcome of the Chicago convention—the nomination, that is, of an Ohioan—made it practically certain that the Democrats would in some way make use of James M. Cox. And the withdrawal of his chief opponent now makes Mr. Cox loom up as by far the most likely Democratic nominee.

There is of course the possibility that Mr. McAdoo is really making a final test of public sentiment or that the party will nominate him in spite of his wish to withdraw. Certainly his popularity in certain quarters cannot be denied.

LIMITS SENATORIAL CONTESTS

No more belated charges contesting the election of a senator will be received, if a bill recently introduced by Senator Selden P. Spencer, of Missouri, Republican, becomes a law. The bill provides that notice must be given to a successful candidate within thirty days after the election if it is to be contested. The new senator would be given thirty days in which to make reply. Testimony in the case would be confined to proof or disproof of charges made in the notice. All testimony would be given within four months after the successful candidate has made reply in a United States court or in a court of record in the state in which the election was held. It would be forwarded to the secretary of the senate and filed by him for the use of the committee on privileges and elections. A bill doing away with belated charges of this sort should certainly be of practical value to the nation.

THAT WOULD STUMP HIM

Mr. Burleson who recently described his postal service during the war as "miraculous," calls his air mail stunts "a phenomenal success." Some time he may be able to have a letter mailed in Manhattan delivered the same day, and then all his adjectives will be gone.

FIRST HIGH SCHOOL IN OHIO, RECORDS PROVE IS ELYRIA'S DISTINCTION

There were hundreds in the vast audience on the recent occasion of Elyria's 1920 commencement exercises who were not aware of the fact that the Elyria high was the first high school in the state to receive a charter and when Mr. F. M. Stevens, president of the Elyria school board of education, made the above statement in his address before the class of 1920, there was quite a ripple of surprise and applause. So for the enlightenment of the school patrons in regard to this pleasing bit of early school history, below is presented a page taken from the book "Early Elyria," published recently by Perry S. Williams, and which is self explanatory:

An Attest of Priority

"Elyria's precedence in the establishment of a high school in Ohio is not merely a pleasant local conceit, but is recognized by outside authorities in educational matters as shown by the following letter:

Feb. 3, 1917.

Mr. Wallace Cathcart,
Western Reserve Historical Soc.
Cleveland, Ohio.
My dear Mr. Cathcart:

'I remember that I promised to send you some additional facts concerning the earliest records of the Elyria high school.

'The high school of Elyria was granted articles of incorporation by the state legislature, Feb. 22, 1830. It was the first institution in the state to be incorporated under the name of a high school The Elyria high school was certainly the first school in Ohio to legally bear the name high school. I rather suspect it was the first one this side of the Allegheny Mountains to do so. The Woodward high school of Cincinnati was chartered almost exactly a year later. The claim is sometimes made that the Woodward is the oldest chartered high school in the state, but this claim rests on a misapprehension of the facts.

The Woodward Free Grammar School was chartered in January, 1827, but it was especially pointed out that the purpose of the school was to teach poor children the rudiments of an English education. Quite distinct, as may be seen, from the function of a high school.

"The men that were the incorporators of this first high school were Heman Ely, Nathan H. Manter, Ebenezer Whiton, Reuben Mussey, David W. Lathrop and "their associates" These men were "ereced and made a body corporate and politic, by the title and name of "The High School of Elyria."

"The said corporation shall be capable in law of holding any estate," "but no part of the funds shall ever be applied to any other object than supporting a high school; and said corporation shall be competent to receive any gift, grant or donation for the purpose of the object of its erection."

'I think it is decidedly an evidence of the alertness of these men that just nine years after the first high school in America was established, (in Boston of course), they should charter and establish an institution of similar name out here in the woods of the Western Reserve.

'Elyria and the Elyria high school, may well be proud of the record. With best wishes, I am

by FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

Billy was a sturdy fellow, possessed of a certain grim sense of humor, so when the boys had the rope tied around his neck, in a seemingly guileless, innocent manner he lowered his head and trotted along at a steady gait, choosing all the rough, stubbly places in the road, never missing a mud hole, never passing an ash heap; through the one, over the other he went, dragging the boys after him and when they attempted to hold him back or stop him he simply quickened his pace and went flying through narrow alleys, over and amongst heaps of rubbish, jerking them off their feet at times or upsetting them with scant ceremony, as the case might be, so that finally rope and boys became hopelessly entangled, and the boys could not let go if they would, but were completely at Billy's mercy.

But at last, the rope got twisted around a lamp post and then it broke, giving the boys their liberty very suddenly. By this time they had lost all thought or desire for a reward and Billy left them with a satisfied twinkle in his eyes and a subtle smile well hidden under his long whiskers.

On his way back to Knob Hill Billy passed a magnificent mansion with shades down and the gas lighted inside.

"Now, what in the world is the matter with the people who live there?" he mused, "are they lunatics that they close the curtains, shut out the sunshine and then light the gas at three o'clock in the afternoon? And what is that long tunnel-like, canopied passage that extends from the curbing to the front door? I believe they call it an awning. It is not raining, what do they want it for? I must get nearer and see about it." So Billy walked to the side opening in the awning and looked in. The front door of the house was wide open and he could hear the strains of a mandolin orchestra from within, while the perfume from many flowers was wafted to his nostrils. Not a person was in sight.

"How strange," thought Billy "to leave a front door wide open and no one to watch it! Guess I will walk up and see how it looks inside." Accordingly he walked bravely up to the door and looked in.

Such gorgeousness he had never even dreamed of. There were flowers and palms in bewildering profusion. There were draperies and furniture of Oriental magnificence, and hundreds of electric bulbs with shades of varied colorings which lit up the scene, while soft, dreamy music made one feel as if he were indeed in fairyland. As in a dream Billy walked up the broad flight of stairs leading to the second floor and from the first room to the right he could hear voices and subdued laughter, while from an adjoining room came the admonition. "Girls, stop chattering and finish dressing, for your guests will soon be here." Then Billy knew that an afternoon reception was to be held here and that was why the shades were drawn and the gas lighted; for it was not fashionable to have sunlight at these affairs. Complexions and gowns look better by gaslight.

LOCAL MOOSE ATTEND ILLINOIS CONVENTION

Fifteen Thousand Delegates on Grounds at Thirty-Second Annual Meeting

A number of Elyria members of the Moose lodge have gone to Mooseheart, Ill., to attend the 32nd annual convention. In the party that left Sunday morning were Frank Sittinger, Henry J. Smith, Grover Tucker, and K. H. Telzrow.

Dispatches state that there were 15,000 delegates and their wives on the grounds yesterday, and that a feature of the meeting will be the laying of the corner stones of five new buildings at the national headquarters.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT
BY ROY A. MOULTON

ISN'T IT TRUE—

THAT many a bank robber was once some mother's "angel child"?

That some of us are so easily convinced that we even believe in ourselves?

THAT it is absurd to expect a square deal from a one-sided man?

THAT many a girl is on the shelf today because she kept men on the rack yesterday?

THAT as one grows older one gets to look less like oneself and more like the life one has led?

THAT love of money is also the root of much matri-mony?

THAT many of us save something up for a rainy day—but the other fellow gets it?

THAT no man is rich enough to buy back the past—or tomorrow?

—William Pulitzer.

So mine is but a sorry lot
And mournful is my place,
I must become a drug fiend just
To kiss my darling's face.

And when my friends walk slow behind
This stark and rigid frame,
And scatter flowers upon my bier,
Just say that I died game.

TIPS TO REFORMERS.

HORSESHOES—It is rumored on good authority that there is still considerable horseshoe pitching going on in this country. Little knots of men can be found here and there, hiding behind barns and country postoffices, pitching these shoes at pegs. This is a particularly pernicious game of chance.

CHECKERS AND DOMINOES—It is believed there are at present more than fifty thousand regular checker and domino games going in grocery stores and other vile resorts of that character. How could this rampant evil have been overlooked so long? Brothers, let us be up and doing, so that the youth of our country shall not be contaminated.

She was apparently a lady of refinement. She had all the hallmarks of the elect. Her clothing was faultless and there was a look of keen intellectuality in her face. With her was a beautiful little boy—not exactly a Little Lord Fontleroy, but a little chap with big eyes and a wealth of tousled hair.

I noticed them, the lady for her dignified bearing and the boy for his bright face, as I sat down just in front of them on the suburban train. Pretty soon I heard the little boy say, evidently referring to me:

"Ain't that a funny hat that man has got on? Ain't it an old hat, mom?"

No reply.

"Ain't he a funny looking man, mom? Ain't he?"

No reply.

"Ain't it funny when a man has got a boil on the back of his neck, mom, ain't it? (We happened to have one that morning.)

No reply.

"Ain't there nothing to do about boils on the back of the neck, mom, ain't there?"

"Shut up!" came the voice of the lady. "If you use that word 'ain't' again, I am going to soak you on the bugle, now take it from me. How often have I got to tell you not to use that word 'ain't?'"

We have had our moments of deep depression when we have longed for fame. That was in our younger days, when we could read fine print and when we were courageous enough to wear a belt without suspenders.

When you grow old and unfamous, as it were, you begin to analyze this fame thing. You take it apart to see what makes it tick, and you prove to your own satisfaction that there isn't much in it. If Fame were on the square, you would be famous. You know, right down in your soul, that you are entitled to it. Fame is a trickster, and can perform more stunts with a man's career than Howard Thurston can do with a deck of cards and a silk hat.

We once knew some very famous young men. They were in our graduating class. Every time the principal during his remarks began an elaborate description of some young man's talents, we blushed becomingly and waited to be named, but the principal invariably named some other member of the class. We left school practically the only unfamous member of our class. One of the most famous ones is now running a livery stable in Iowa and another is covering Missouri for a wall paper factory.

When we see what Fame, the fickle hussy, has done to some people, we are content. A famous man can make a monkey of himself in one minute and forty seconds and remain a monkey for the rest of his life. When you are not famous, it is difficult to do this, because nobody pays any attention to what you say or do.

After all is said and done, we would much rather not be famous, and it looks as though we have our wish. We can have aheck of a time in obscurity. As an east side friend of our once said of a pal: "Dat guy kin git away wit murder. Nobody knows him."

Fame hardly brings you a return for your investment of time and worry. There was Bismarck, the greatest statesman Germany ever produced, and the one-time idol of the people. All they could think of to do for him was to name a herring after him.

It is told of a certain Long Island suburbanite that he arrived home on the 6:11 the other evening with a package under his arm, the outlines of which created great interest among his fellow passengers. To be brief, the package looked as though it contained two quarts lashed together tightly and inclosed in paper.

After dinner that evening a delegation called on this gentleman to spend the evening. It was a sort of surprise party. The party had no sooner arrived than the host invited them down cellar, saying that he had something to show them. "I brought them out on the train tonight," he added.

And he took them down cellar and showed them the cutest pair of Indian clubs. "I have got to exercise every day with them," he said.

"Oh!" exclaimed several of the guests, and that is the way the party ended.
